RJW Transport Generating Significant Fuel Savings with Rand McNally's TND™ 760 Devices

Company Achieves Significant Margin Growth by Reducing Idle Time and Increasing Productivity

Skokie, Ill., May 19, 2014 – Just weeks after RJW Transport, Inc. implemented Rand McNally's TND™ 760 fleet management devices across its fleet, executives report that the company is exceeding the goals of its investment. Based in Woodridge, Illinois, RJW Transport (RJW) provides truckload and less-than-truckload transportation across the United States and Canada, as well as warehousing operations.

The 140-truck fleet, initially investigated a fleet management solution to accomplish two objectives: 1) Automate HOS logs and fuel tax reporting, and 2) Increase miles per gallon with better navigation and a reduction in idle time.

“Since implementing the TND™ 760s five weeks ago, we’ve experienced a .8 MPG improvement, resulting in a $50,000 cost savings,” said Kevin Williamson, President of RJW Transport. “But what’s been a truly unexpected benefit are the significant improvements in our fleet production – drivers are logging more miles, and we’re improving our fleet management with reporting provided by Rand McNally’s Connect Web Portal.”

Rand McNally’s devices were ultimately selected based on easy integration to the OTS fuel tax solution; ease of installation, reported at less than five minutes; and positive response from RJW’s owner-operator drivers.

Since implementation a little more than a month ago, Williamson reports that idle time – a key measurement for the company – has been reduced from 40% to 20%. RJW intends to continue to work toward a 5% idle time.

“With a very diverse fleet operation, the reporting available from the data provided by the TND™ 760 has enabled us to achieve significant productivity gains across the board – that was a big ‘WOW’,” continued Williamson.
