

Rand McNally's DC 200™ Named HDT Top 20 Product for 2017

The Sleek Electronic Logging and Fleet Management Device Recognized Today

SKOKIE, Ill. , Feb. 24, 2017 – Rand McNally's DC 200™ an innovative, sleek electronic and fleet management plug-in, has been selected as one of the recipients of this year's Heavy Duty Trucking's (HDT) "Top 20" Products.

The DC 200™, which was designed to meet the budgets and compliance requirements of small- and medium-sized fleets, was selected from hundreds of products and services for its innovative and efficient ability to address industry issues and its potential to improve a fleet's bottom line. This year's products were chosen by HDT editors, select past winners, and a panel of five veteran fleet maintenance professionals from the American Trucking Associations' Technology & Maintenance Council.

"We are honored to have the DC 200™ recognized by HDT as a top product," said Stephen Fletcher, CEO of Rand McNally. "Our goal with this device was to continue our tradition of providing advanced technology to fleet owners and drivers alike that is cost-efficient, quick and simple to install, and easy to use."

The DC 200™ is a low-profile, 5-inch long device that plugs into a truck's diagnostic port and leverages existing technology by pairing with Android devices. Through a Bluetooth and proprietary Wi-Fi connection, the DC 200™ sends driving data to the complimentary Rand McNally DriverConnect* app, where drivers may view current Hours of Service (HOS) logs as well as DVIR documents. The DC 200™ also sends data back and forth to/from the DriverConnect web portal via a proprietary dedicated cell modem. The device is self-reliant and does not use data from the hosting Android device.
